TRALINET Center Files Collection

The TRADOC Library and Information Network (TRALINET) Center collection is a processed, open collection containing the file folders relating to the operation of the TRALINET Center located at Fort Monroe, Virginia. The TRALINET Center mission when it was established in 1978 was to develop, test and implement the necessary ADP systems, data base interfaces, library procedures and policies which served to integrate TRADOC libraries into one command-wide, full-service library/information network. The TRALINET Center initially offered centralized acquisitions, automation, and shared cataloging support from a central office to support TRADOC's 45 library systems serving school, technical, and MWR missions.

The TRADOC Library and Information Network still exists to date which is the 43 library systems within TRADOC but the TRALINET Center, the operational arm of those libraries, disbanded in 1994 during the downsizing of the military. Among its accomplishments were centralized budgetary support for libraries, exporting automation early and effectively, and maximizing scarce resources (dollars, people, and time) to accomplish mission more effectively. The TRALINET Center also provided centralized intern training for about 100 librarian interns during its existence.

Included in the collection are papers and information about the Army Library Committee, TRADOC Management and Engineering (TRAMEA) and the Army Library Management Office.
